

HOW A NIGHT COMES TOGETHER

- 1 Propose or get hired
Produce your own concepts, or get cast by hosts who found your reviews.
- 2 Cast the event in-app
Invite suppliers with terms attached; acceptances land with the money already framed.
- 3 Produce the moment
Run-of-show, guest list, and supplier lineup live on one event page.
- 4 Everyone settles at once
One event, one settlement run — your fee included, itemized.

The honesty rule

A night that doesn't reach its threshold simply rests: every guest is refunded in full, automatically, and nobody owes anybody. The app says it plainly: "Didn't come together."

THE WAY IT WORKS TODAY

You herd vendors by text, chase deposits by email, and eat the risk when a headcount melts. The craft is producing moments; the job became collections.

What changes with XLNT

A bench you can actually vet

Caterers, musicians, spaces, staff — with verified reviews from real events and published rates. Casting beats cold-calling.

Money that handles itself

Backings captured, deposits held, suppliers settled — one ledger per event, nobody chasing anybody.

Demand-first events

Float an idea, let the neighborhood back it, produce it when it's real. Speculative work drops to zero.

WHY THIS IS DIFFERENT

Not another listing site

XLNT runs the whole night — the demand, the booking, and the money between — in one community app.

~~Vendor directories sell listings~~

XLNT shows verified reviews and books with the money attached.

~~You float costs between deposits~~

Backings are captured up front; suppliers settle from the event, not your account.

~~Every job is a custom quote~~

Terms templates and published fees make your pricing a page, not a PDF.

Demand before risk — for everyone

Nights launch only when enough neighbors have backed them and paid. Hosts stop gambling; you cook, pour, play, and park against real numbers.

Reputation that compounds locally

Every night adds verified reviews to one portable record. In a county-first community, your last event markets your next one.
