

HOW A NIGHT COMES TOGETHER

- 1 Build your profile once
Roles you work, certifications, radius, rates.
- 2 Accept shifts with the math shown
Every offer states hours and take-home before you commit.
- 3 Work events that run on rails
Run-of-show, contacts, and timing on the event page.
- 4 Settle next morning
No invoicing, no chasing — reviewed and paid.

The honesty rule

A night that doesn't reach its threshold simply rests: every guest is refunded in full, automatically, and nobody owes anybody. The app says it plainly: "Didn't come together."

THE WAY IT WORKS TODAY

*Gig boards pay late and cancel later.
You hold a Saturday for a maybe, and when the event dies quietly, your night dies with it.*

What changes with XLNT

Events that are actually happening

You're booked into gatherings whose guests already committed and paid. Cancellation stops being your risk.

Terms you can screenshot

Rate, hours, role, venue, contact — frozen at acceptance. No renegotiation at the door.

A record that promotes you

Verified reviews from every event build a profile that books the next one at better rates.

WHY THIS IS DIFFERENT

Not another listing site

XLNT runs the whole night — the demand, the booking, and the money between — in one community app.

~~Gig apps auction your hours~~

XLNT casts you into a community's events — repeat hosts, repeat work.

~~Cancellations go uncompensated~~

Events launch on captured backing; a resting night can't stiff you.

~~Fees hide inside the rate~~

8%, published — your net is the first number on the offer.

Demand before risk — for everyone

Nights launch only when enough neighbors have backed them and paid. Hosts stop gambling; you cook, pour, play, and park against real numbers.

Reputation that compounds locally

Every night adds verified reviews to one portable record. In a county-first community, your last event markets your next one.
